

Author: Chris Van Dusen

School: Warren Community School

Visit Reflection: “Students felt like they were meeting a celebrity and many got pictures taken with Chris. This was especially nice because very often kids only see sports players, singers, and movie stars as celebrities. He was very inspiring, and it was a bonus that he is both an author and illustrator. I heard many students say that they wanted to be as good as him someday. It was such a treat to have the opportunity to let small groups of kids (about 30) meet with him privately in the library over the two days, listen to him at a 30 minute assembly in the morning on their assigned day, and have the opportunity to share him with their family members in the evening. He was such a pleasure to work with and the students absolutely loved him. The whole event created such excitement for reading and writing.” - Lisa May Sturgis, First Grade Teacher at Warren Community School, April 21, 2017

